

City of Beautiful Homes

County, U. S. A.

And Collinsville has one of the best systems of schools of any town in the State of Oklahoma. Its High School is fully accredited by the University of Oklahoma and by the North Central Association. The system is backed by an alert and aggressive Board of Education and by thorough going sympathy of the people of the community. Only teachers who attain a high standard of scholarship and preparation are employed in this school and there is a thorough spirit of co-operation and pride among them. At the last meeting of the Board of Education orders were given for the introduction of a home economics and vocational agriculture department into the school system for next year. The school already maintains a splendid sewing department. There are thirty-seven teachers employed to care for the 1,200 children who are in actual attendance.

The city maintains four or five good churches, where those of the various denominations will find affiliation and welcome.

Traveling men and those who have occasion to make their homes away from home say that the Erwin Hotel is one of the best small-town hotels they have ever visited. Its rooms are clean and cozy and the meals served are abundant and well prepared. The price is an amazing record to one who has patronized hotels and cafes in other cities.

Rentals for good houses are low. A complete modern five-room cottage can be rented for from $20.00 to $30.00 per month. These cottages are completely equipped with water, electricity and gas, all ready to step and use. Expenses for groceries, meats, etc., are proportionately on a par with rentals.

Between Tulsa and Collinsville there is at present splendid railway service, there being three trains a day each way over the Santa Fe. In addition to this there is a fine highway which is practically a 365-day road. Plans have been developed and as soon as building conditions permit there will be an interurban established with hourly service.

Men who must work in Tulsa will find large advantage by making Collinsville their home and going to the city from their work. The difference in rentals alone in a year's time would pay for a car, and a man could then be independent. The opportunity here to grow and prosper will appeal to most home-loving men and will go a long way toward competing with the high cost of living and for those who are looking for a complete change of location will find here considerable demand for labor, both skilled and unskilled.

Collinsville's industries consist of smelters, brick plant and the work of coal mines. The Prime Western Smelter is a branch of the New Zinc Company and employs some 400 or 500 men. The Coffeyville Vitrified Brick Company plant is said to be the largest brick plant in the State. There are immense deposits of coal underlying the whole of this immediate territory, and the surface coal is being worked with considerable activity. Plans are on foot for the development of a thick vein of fine coal which lies some 400 feet under the surface and the development of this deposit there will come a tremendous increase in Collinsville's trade and commercial relations. The farming country around Collinsville is being rapidly settled with a fine class of farmers who are developing both stock raising and the raising of grain.

Come up and see us and say "Howdy-do!" You will find a community of alert, aggressive citizens who are looking toward the future and who do not have their headlight on behind. This is Collinsville, Tulsa County, U. S. A.

The House of Good Up-to-Date Pictures and Clean Vaudeville

P. J. DUFFY, owner and manager of the Liberty theater, came to Collinsville 11 years ago to build the first brick building in the then small town of Collinsville, and by his progressive-ness and ability as a building contractor he built 36 of the brick business houses in this progressive city. Amongst them are three beautiful school buildings, city hall, Baptist and Catholic churches, and four up-to-date modern brick residences that are a credit to any city. Mr. Duffy receives a good revenue from those residences.

His first business venture was to erect a church for the people to worship in and his last building venture was to build a modern and up-to-date theater that the public might be entertained in. He and his estimable wife have given the citizens of Collinsville and surrounding country good clean entertainment in this theater and they have it at a cost of $20,000 and the good citizens of Collinsville appreciate the efforts of P. J. Duffy and Mrs. Duffy by their good attendance to witness the many productions brought to the Liberty theater.
